

FRESH STRAWBERRIES

Florida, the Best Variety Grown

Fresh Asparagus
Fresh Endive
Fresh Tomatoes
Fresh Cauliflower
Fresh Spinach
Fresh Squash
Fresh Imported Grapes

New Cabbage
New Beets
New Escarole
New Romain
New Peppers
New Potatoes
New Apples
New Oranges

FRESH KILLED BROILERS
Guinea Fowls
Capons
Egg Plants
Roasting Chickens
Pork Tenderloins
Native Veal
Young Turkeys
XXXX Beef

FINE FLORIDA NAVE ORANGES

Somers Bros.

Jan 21d

Geo. R. Harris, M. D.
Physician
and Surgeon

Room 24 - Shannon Building.

In addition to regular hours 8 to 10 and 6 to 8, I may be found at the office from 1 to 2 p. m.

'Phone 59. dec15d

Fine Tailoring

SWANN'S,
Shetucket St., opp. First Nat. Bank.
dec15d

Valentines! Valentines!

Pretty, Novelty and Joke Valentines and Valentine Post Cards for everyone.

Creme Paper, Napkins, Hearts and Cupids for valentine parties.

A fine line of Post Cards, Flags, etc. for Lincoln Day and Washington's Birthday.

MRS. EDWIN FAY, Franklin Square
Jan 20d

MARLETTA

Have you met her?

She is the sweetest thing you ever saw and sells for ten cents each or eleven for one dollar at the cigar-stand in the

Wauregan House

THE PARKER-DAVENPORT CO., Proprietors.

BOOK-KEEPING

A thorough, practical course at the

Norwich Commercial School
Broadway Theatre Bldg.

JOIN THE RANKS

of the well dressed men whose clothes are made by

C. H. Nickerson, 123 Main St.
P. S. Cut prices on Winter Overcoats and Suits. Jan 18d

Now is the Time

to have your Furs altered and repaired.

I guarantee my work to give satisfaction. I also carry a new line of Furs in all the latest styles. Call in and see me.

BRUCKNER, The Furrier

55 Franklin Street
nov9MVF

COUGH NO MORE

STEINER'S BRONCHIAL LOZENGES
will stop your cough.
10 cents per box.

STEINER'S BRONCHIAL LOZENGES

are the best thing in the world for Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

Jan 14d

DR. N. GIBBERT GRAY,

GRADUATE VETERINARIAN
AND DENTIST.
HODGES STABLE.
Tel. 10. 4 to 20 Bath St.

The Bulletin

Norwich, Wednesday, Feb. 3, 1909.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

Valentine parties are being planned. The day's length has increased an even hour.

There was a brief snow flurry on Tuesday evening.

Old-fashioned quilting parties are coming into favor.

These are the days when the merciful man is merciful to his horse.

In the Catholic churches on Candlemas day there were special masses.

Somerset lodge works the Entered Apprentice degree this evening—adv.

The squeak of wheels Tuesday morning indicated continued cold weather.

The moonlight and good sleighing were improved by a number of parties on Tuesday evening.

There was the service of Holy Communion in the Episcopal churches on Tuesday, the feast of the Purification.

Some persons declare that if Candlemas day is sunny it does not mean a return of cold weather, but a continuance of sun.

Spanish War soldiers in a number of cities will hold a service February 14 in memory of the soldiers who lost their lives on the Maine.

A bill has been introduced in the general assembly which provides for a close season for grouse, woodcock and quail for a period of three years.

Game commissioners are finding that Hungarian partridges are dying as a result of the ice storm which prevented them from getting food. In some places provision is made to feed the birds.

Charles T. Burrows, 67, a native of Norwich, died from heart disease, while at the table Monday evening in his home in Mystic. He leaves his wife and two sons, Charles I. and Lewis Burrows of Mystic.

Investigation has revealed that numerous merchants and manufacturers have been violating the postal laws relative to the sending of writing in packages. This infraction of the rules is punishable by a fine of $10.

After a whole day spent in cleaning and marking out the pond, forty men began Tuesday cutting ice for E. E. Spicer at Eastern Point. Mr. Spicer reports a thickness of 12 inches on his pond and expects a good harvest.

At the Meriden Woman's club meeting Monday, it was voted to extend an invitation to the state association of women's clubs to hold the May meeting in Meriden according to formation recently received that such an invitation would be agreeable.

The annual convention of the Portland Fraternity League of the United States of America is being held in Fall River with 86 delegates present from all over New England. Seventeen branches of the order in the New England states are represented.

O. J. Rowe, formerly agent for the Central Vermont railway at Brattleboro and New London, who went to the Changuinola railroad in Costa Rica, Central America, of which E. D. Nash is general superintendent, has been promoted to be terminal superintendent by General Manager Nash.

The fatalities for the first month of the year, according to unofficial report reach 55. Of this number two were homicides, eight suicides and forty-six accidental takings off. In committing suicide five used carbolic acid, two cut their throats and one chose drowning. There were 11 persons burned to death.

Dairy Commissioner Hubert F. Potter in his biennial report says: About 800 dairies have been inspected under the law and while the most of them were found to be in a fairly good condition, some of them were so unsanitary that the product was unfit for food, and should be condemned as unsafe for consumption.

Of a former Norwich visitor Monday's Worcester Post said: The Rev. William H. Grogan, rector of St. Paul's church, was 62 years old today. He received the congratulations and gifts of friends. The rector is in the best of health and spirits and is rejoicing with his parishioners in having a church free from debt.

Besides electing officers in Bridgeport Monday, at their fifth annual meeting, the Connecticut Laundrymen's association voted unanimously to affiliate with the Laundrymen's National association of America, the meeting concluding with the annual banquet at 7 o'clock, at which nearly 100 sat down. T. S. Meyer of Waterbury is president.

WANTED IN NORWICH.

R. W. Mansfield Sought as Head Mission Worker Here.

A while ago the United Workers of Norwich, and watched R. W. Mansfield's labor in New London. Y. M. C. A. secretary and county probation officer, offered him the post of head mission worker for the society in this city, to succeed A. P. Corbin. About a month ago the United Workers urged Mr. Mansfield to accept, offering a higher salary than he received at the New London Y. M. C. A. They wished him to come to Norwich at once, but Mr. Mansfield felt it his duty to remain at New London for at least a while and did so, notifying the directors of his offer from Norwich.

The directors of the New London association offered Mr. Mansfield the same amount as he was offered here. Mr. Mansfield accepted and will remain in doing so Mr. Mansfield made a sacrifice even with the increased salary, as Judge Lucius Brown of the Norwich city court offered Mr. Mansfield the additional office of probation officer.

Davis Creditors to Appeal.

The creditors of H. S. Davis, bankrupt stock broker of this city, have employed counsel and will appeal from the decision given by A. A. Browning, referee in bankruptcy. They have engaged an expert accountant to audit the books.

Common Pleas Court.

The February term of the court of common pleas scheduled to come in Tuesday at Norwich did not business. The next session of common pleas will be held by Judge Charles B. Waller in New London on Saturday.

PERSONAL.

Dr. George T. Howland was a visitor in Hartford on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucius Brown and Mrs. Norton have been visitors in Hartford this week.

U. S. Marshal Edson S. Bishop of Hartford spent Tuesday night in town.

Miss Fannie Tillinghast spent Sunday with Miss Grace Patterson of New London.

Mrs. Frank Jacobs has returned to Middletown from a visit with Miss Chism of Norwich.

Ernest Rogers of Norwich has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers of Brewer street, New London.

On Tuesday there was a marked improvement in the condition of William M. Williams, who is ill with pneumonia at his home on Church street.

Henry Ellison, who has been office assistant at the Y. M. C. A., has finished his employment there. He expects to take up railroad work in Holyoke.

NORWICH SHOOTING CLUB.

Annual Meeting Held and Officers Elected—Promising Outlook.

The annual meeting of the Norwich Shooting club was held at the store of Euton Chase Co. Monday evening, and a number of enthusiastic shooters were present. The following officers were elected: President, G. W. Dolbear; vice president, W. H. Gates; secretary and treasurer, W. A. Moran; field captain, J. E. Mitchell; board of managers, T. B. Leahy, A. E. Grimes, A. C. Wright, H. F. Ulmer and J. E. Olcott.

The outlook of the club for the coming year promises to be prosperous. A programme of special prize shoots will be arranged in advance of their opening shoot in April.

FOR A LINCOLN MONUMENT.

Petition Circulated Here by Postmaster Caruthers.

Postmaster Caruthers on Tuesday was circulating a petition to the legislature favoring the erection of a monument to Abraham Lincoln in Hartford. He received a large number of local signatures and will forward it to Hartford, where it will be joined with similar ones from other parts of the state. There is no monument or statue of Lincoln in the entire state of Connecticut.

Attorney Alling a Candidate.

Among the candidates talked of as successor to State Attorney Williams of New Haven county when he is elected, as expected now, to the superior court, is Attorney Armon A. Alling. Mr. Alling is at present assistant state attorney and in that position has shown himself to be an active and painstaking advocate, having assisted State Attorney Hall in the Burns case here. Mr. Alling is popular in military circles. He is the son of John W. Alling, one of the leading members of the New Haven county bar.

Sent to Jail.

In the city court on Tuesday morning Edie Smith, charged with keeping a disorderly house, was sent to jail for fifteen days and taxed the costs. City Attorney Hall on Monday talked of bringing back the girls who had been sent to the state school and charging Edie with a very serious crime which might be along the line of the recent Addie Burns case.

W. C. Coffee Injured.

W. C. Coffee met with a very painful accident while in the employ of the Page Boller company last Saturday. While unloading sections of heaters at the freight depot a very heavy one accidentally slipped and landed on his right foot, the big toe being crushed. Dr. Harper attended to the injured member. The accident will confine Mr. Coffee to the house for some time.

Christ Church Bible Class.

There was a meeting of those interested in the formation of a Bible class in Christ church at the home of Rev. N. P. Carey on Tuesday evening. There are to be done or more in the class to meet Tuesday evenings during Lent at Rev. Mr. Carey's home, he being the teacher.

Colchester-Norwich Road.

A number of encouraging subscriptions have been received by officials of the Norwich and Colchester trolley road recently. City Engineer Bromer who has been away and also ill, expects to start work on the survey next Monday and push it through to completion as quickly as possible.

Attachment Removed.

The attachment on the Addie Burns place in New London for $450, by Louis E. Effenberg, a saloon keeper, was removed Tuesday, when the Burns woman paid the debt to Effenberg, paying the amount of the bill.

Board of Trade Banquet.

Although not definitely decided, it is expected that the annual banquet of the Board of Trade will be held on Monday evening, Feb. 22.

Welsh Beasts Menial.

Los Angeles, Cal. Feb. 2.—Freddie Welsh had a shade the better of George Menial in a ten round battle here tonight in which no decision was announced.

Following The Grippe

often comes various after effects, including extreme weakness, loss of appetite and poor assimilation, which, if neglected, are sure to reduce your vitality, wear you out and let a bad cough or some other wasting disease run its course upon you and possibly run you into consumption. This you must not permit.

Life and health are both worth fighting for. The battle for perfect health will be an easy one to you if you will take SMITH'S EMULSION COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES just as soon as you get about after having had the grippe.

This Emulsion warms, revives, builds up and strengthens the whole system as nothing else but Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites can do. Try it, you'll see for yourself.

Price 75c the Pint.

SMITH'S

The Drug Man,
Franklin Square, Norwich, Ct.
Feb 2d

EVILENCE BEGINS IN BOCARDUS TRIAL

Jury Completed in Afternoon and Civil Engineer Pitcher Describes Plan of the Vicinity of the Murder.

In the superior court here on Tuesday the trial of John Bocardus for the murder of Dyer Copeland in New London, commenced. The jury was completed during the afternoon. Every man but one of those summoned in from whom to secure a jury was examined, barring those excused because of illness. Earl Bennett was the only one not examined. At the opening of court Tuesday morning the accused had a talk with his mother and both he and his mother seemed to be good spirits. The examination of the men for jury duty was long and tedious, occupying much of the day.

The jury selected is as follows: Samuel P. Prentice, Griswold; Allison B. Ladd, Jr., Sprague; George C. Stead, Norwich; Nathan S. Bushnell, Norwich; Clifford C. King, Lebanon; Frederick S. Armstrong, Franklin; George B. Burdick, Bozrah; Loren E. Rathbone, Salem; Appleton Kane, Preston; Charles F. Bond, New London; Albert G. Kneeland, Lebanon; Griswold Morgan, Salem.

The first man called in the morning was Walter J. Wallace of Lebanon, who is in the furniture business there and had served on the Gallivan jury. He was excused by the state.

George C. Stead of Norwich, real estate dealer, had served in the Gleason and Silva cases. He was accepted as juror No. 3, being satisfactory to both sides.

Assistant Clerk Norman informed the court when George A. Haskell was called that he was not available.

Andrew G. Pember of Sprague, a farmer, said he had no use for a drinking man but thought he could get one. He was excused by the state.

Nathan S. Bushnell of Taftville, a farmer and test operator, was acceptable to both sides and is juror No. 4.

Because of deafness, Joseph N. Bryant of Jewett City was excused, and the court excused Daniel G. Gagnon of Jewett City. He had formed an opinion regarding the prisoner's guilt.

Stating that he knew nothing about the case and not being opposed to capital punishment, or prejudiced against either side, the court accepted as juror No. 5, Frederick S. Armstrong of Franklin, who was excused by the state.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.

Being deaf and not believing in capital punishment, R. K. Lewis of Preston did not know much about the case. He had never served in a murder trial. He was excused by the state, as was Clarence J. Aspren of Norwich Town, who knew little of the case.